Matinee at the Gem, Night at the Opera House

Hello, Young Fellow! Want to Have a GOOD TIME?

Maybe she looks good to you, my boy. Beware! There is ruin in her smile, disease in her caress and the vilest poison in her body.

Sex Truth in PLAIN LANGUAGE

Modern life and its evils are pictured; loose women and their habits are shown.

"FIT TO WIN"

THURSDAY and FRIDAY, MAY 22d and 23d, at the OPERA HOUSE

Matinee for ladies only 2:30, Evening for men only 7:15, 8:45. Gem Theater Saturday afternoon, evening.

Admission 30c, Including War Tax

This picture is so candidly bold in its revelation of life-sex truths that men and women are not seated together in the Opera House, thereby avoiding any embarrassment. Persons under 16 years not admitted.

DELEGATES INVITED TO CONFERENCE

Maysville Is Invited to Send Delegates to Red Cross Conference at Cleveland, Ohio.

Maysville is included in the list of cities which have been invited to send a representative to a special Civilian Relief Conference to be held at Cleveland on May 23 and 24th by the staff of the American Red Cross, Lake Division, Department of Civilian Relief. Present day problems of Home Service and its future possibilities outlined in the new Red Cross peace program will be discussed by Lake Division headquarters officials and representatives from Red Cross chapters in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky.

Public Health heads from the three areas and prominent social workers will discuss public health work and the problems of organization to be met in cities and rural districts by American Red Cross chapters.

CHANGES IN CAPITAL—OLD DAYS IN WASHINGTON ARE RECALLED BY THOS. M. LAFIN

(Washington Post)
"Changes have been great in Washington since I was here more than 20 years ago, in the Fifty-fifth Congress," said Thomas M. Lafin, of Pennsylvania, at the Ebbitt, "I was associated with the Democratic Committee, and for a time came to the capital frequently. I remember, for one thing, the row of trees in Fourteenth street between Pennsylvania avenue and F street, and how in the summer the storekeepers used to sit close to the curb and read the papers. There were still a number of prominent people who were driving around town behind teams of the finest horses. South of the avenue looked like a lot of shanties as compared to what it does now. It seems to me that there was more genuine and easy-going loafing in the hotel lobbies. Chamberlin's was in its heyday."

"There were bars at the Capitol, and lots of men sported the old long-tailed swallow-tails, pleated-bosom shirts with spacious bow ties and big sombrero hats. Washington was an old-fashioned southern city. Now, perhaps because of pride at being the greatest capital in the world, it has put up so many white marble structures as to make the number the most impressive thing to the visitor. The city is busier and more up to date. Twenty years ago it rather enjoyed a half doze. They were still talking about the war between the states, with a lot of feeling. It seems now as though the war were 100 years ago. And that is the way it seems to the whole South. The nation does bigger things now, and this is reflected here in Washington, which is to me the noblest and most interesting city on the earth."

ON THE FARM IN KENTUCKY

Observe Rooster Week

The week of June 2nd has been officially set apart as "Rooster Week." During that week the farmer and poultry man are urged to pen or to kill all roosters. It is estimated that if every rooster in the State were kept away from the flocks over a million dollars would be saved which are annually lost in rotten eggs.

Investigations have proved that infertile eggs keep well even in warm weather. Fertile eggs begin to incubate quite rapidly in warm weather and then spoil. As seventeen per cent. of the eggs marketed in warm weather spoil, the loss runs into big money quite rapidly.

Silage Is Tested
On May 12th the annual Station-fed cattle sale was held at the Experiment Station farm at Lexington. Twenty head of silage-fed steers sold at $16.25 per hundred. Ten head of these animals had been fed wheat straw and corn silage. The other lot got straw and sorghum silage. Both lots were fed exactly the same amount of cotton seed meal and grain. This year completed the second year test on the relative value of corn silage and sorghum silage. The large crowd of feeders and farmers present expressed surprise at the finish of the cattle fed sorghum when compared with those fed corn silage.

Buy Heifers Again
Again this year Holstein heifers are being bought by the boys and girls in club work in Webster county. Two carloads have just come in from Wisconsin where they were bought by the county agent of Webster. A late report states that the children were delighted with their animals but were being sorely tempted to sell by offers of more money than they paid for the stock.

He Took a Thought
Taylor Smith, a corn club boy in Clay County, grew 135 bushels of corn on an acre last season. No one is ever satisfied for in writing of his work, he closed his letter by saying:

"The fourth time I went through and cleaned the weeds out of it. That made four times I cultivated my corn in all. When I left my corn it was in good growing cultivation. After my corn had been planted I took a thought. If it had been drilled, the yield might have been larger than it really was. But I was very well pleased with the yield I had."

The cross roads oracle says: If a lot of the men that whistle sticks at the store would get busy, the farm labor problem'd be just about solved.

GOOD ROADS INDUCE BUYING OF VEGETABLES FROM FARMS

There is a thrifty farmer's wife in Essex county, N. J., who has taken advantage in an unusual way of the good roads running past her home. Her husband conducts a very attractive truck farm, which looks so neat and flourishing that a passing motorist has a natural inclination to desire some of its products. It was a sort of inspiration for this woman to encourage this inclination by a neat sign reading, "FRESH VEGETABLES FOR SALE: READY TO BE TAKEN AWAY. She will not say how much she sells in this way but judging from the number of market baskets in the barn ready to be filled, there is a good steady demand.

Now that good roads attract so many people into the country there is bound to be more of this buying at the farm.

Whether it develops into a considerable business at any farm will depend upon the various condition, of course, but in these days when fresh vegetables and fresh eggs are so much desired by the people who ride by the farms where such things are produced, there is every reason to expect that many more people will follow the lead of this thrifty farmer's wife and build up such a trade.
